GRIGG-CHAPMAN WEDDING

A Pretty Ceremony at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Marriage of Miss Ernestine Richold and Mr. Lee Baumgarten the Event in Jewish Circles.

One of the most beautiful weddings of the June season occurred last evening at 8 o'clock at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, the contracting parties being Miss Florence Caroline Grigg, the only daugnter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Grigg, and Mr. Edward Lyon Chapman, of Monroe, Mich. The bride and groom entered the church together, preceded by the ushers, Mr. Alexander Grant, who also officiated as best man; Mr. Randolph Bampton, Dr. R. Phil Cronin and Mr. Edward Bruce Moore. The maid of honor, Miss Edith Franzoni, a cousin of the bride, followed, wearing a girlishly pretty coatume of white organdle over white sik, and carrying a chester of long-stemmed American Feauty roses tied with white satin ribbon. The bride was attired in a beautiful and becoming gown of white satin brocade trimmed with according planted chiffon. Her tolle veil was caught with a surborst of pearls and diamonds, and her flower bouquet was of bride roses. Dr Radchiffe, paster of the church, united the pair with the special marriage service he has compiled, a printed copy of which, with blank sheets to be filled in with the signatures of the noptial party, will be treasured by the bride as a souvenir The church was elaborately decorated with palms, daisies and sweet peas, and the music was of an unusually beautiful character, the erganist, Mr. John Porter Lawrence, being a personal friend of the bride. A card reception followed at the some of Mr. and Mrs Grigg, No. 1213 K street. A profusion of palms was grouped about the puriors, the piano and mantels were banked with sweet peas and daisies and the chandeliers were garlanded with vinra

The bridal gifts, which were of unusual beauty and variety, included a berry set presented to the groom by his colengues in the Patent Office and a handsome cut-glass bowl from the Sons of Veterans, to which organization be belongs. Mr. Chapman is an examiner of patents in the Interior Department, and is a graduate of Ann Arbor and Cornell. The bride is the possessor of a very lovely voice, which, with her win some personality, has won for her distinction in the operatio

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman left at 10:40 for a bridal trip to the West. They will make brief visits to Judge and Mrs. Landon, of Michigan, and to the groom's home in Mon-roe. They will then make a tour of the Great Lakes, and will be at home after July 20 at No. 1213 K street.

Among the pretty weddings of yesterday was that of Miss Emestine Richold, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Richold. of No 427 Sixth street southwest, and Mr. Lee Baumgarten, of this city, which was solemnized at 6 o'clock in the ballof the club house, No. 719 Sixth street northwest.

The bride and groom entered the room together, preceded by Mr. William Baumgarten, the groom's brother, and Messrs, Ferd S. Richold, Sol. S. Richold, and O. S. Richold, brothers of the bride. They were succeeded by Mr. and Mrs. Baum-They garten and Mr. and Mrs Richold, parents of the couple, the entire part; grouping themselves before an improvised altar where the impressive ceremony of the Jewish rite was solemnized by Rabbi Sterr... The service was witnessed by a large uniber of relatives and special guests. The bride was gracefully attired in white nulle over white silk, trimmed with taffera ribbons and lace. She wore a tulle veli sught with a diamond star and a closur of white hyacinths, a spray of the same flowers being caught tween the leaves of a white Bible she quet. The ceremony was followed by a general reception to friends with re-freshments and dancing until midnight There was a string orchestra in attendance, though the nuptial marches were played on the plane by Prof. Plart, a

Branch: Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ferd. Frank and family, Mr. S. N. Meyers and family, Mr. A. Damman and family, Mr. L. Gradwohl and family, Mr. R. his early life was spent in California whither his parents removed soon after his birth, and it was as a resident of that State that he received his appointment as a member of the graduating class of 1855 and a year later was come second lieutenant and assigned to daty aboutd the sloop Falmouth. It was just about this time that the Paraguay expedi tion was being prepared, and in 1859 Col. Helib was transferred to the Preble and thus became a member of the expedition In the latter part of the same year he was detailed for duty in this city at the marine headquarters, from which post he was soon after transferred to Pensacola, break of hostilities between the Union and the Confederacy,

He was then ordered to Fort Washing ton, on the Potomac, in order to prevent the enemy from setting that important position. A little later in the same year his rank was raised to that of first licutenant, and he was assigned for duty upon the frigate Sumpter, which was one of the vessels constituting the West Gulf Blocksding Squadron . On the 26th of July, 1861, his rank was advanced to that of captain, and ne was assigned to the marine barrucks at Gos port, Va., for duty. In quick succession, important posts at Morris and Folly Islands, S. C., the marine barracks at New York city, and the barracks in Washington were in his charge, and in 1867 he re-turned to Pensacols, to take command of the barracks there, with the rank of commandant. Col. Hebb occupied the same important position at the Mare Island navy yard,

San Fraudsco, from 1874 to 1880, during which period his rank was advanced to that of major. From 1880 to 1885 he acted as commandant of the yard at Boston, Mass., and the following year was created lieutenant colonel, and sent to take charge of the station at Portsmouth. It was not until 1889 that the rank of colonel was bestowed upon the de-ceased, when he again assumed command of the Boston navy yard and remained there until his transfer to the marine barracks at Washington, acting as com mandant up to the time of Col. Reywood's appointment to the post, in 1891. In 1892 Col. Hebb had attained the age which entitled him to retirement and since that time has resided here in the summer and at Pensacola during the wintermonths. Col. Hebb had not been in good health for several years and three days ago he was stricken with pneumonia and immediately succumbed to the attack. His wife and family, a son and daughter, were pres-ent at the bedside when the end came. The funeral will take place on Saturday at 11 To Promote Art in America.
